Lost

You have just arrived by train.
At the station you meet a boy who is looking for help. When you speak to him, you realise that he does not speak English. You don't understand his language and he can't speak any other language.

How do you react?

Flat for rent!

You are a big family and decisions are made together. The flat in the attic of your house is for rent and you are to decide who will live there next.

Which of the four applicants do you want to rent to?

GUARERO

young man

A young man
looking for a job.
The rent is paid by social services.

He has a thick,
black beard that scares you.

GUARERO

the father

A single father, who is recognisably non-white, with two teenagers.

He only ever works
nights

GUARERO

the couple

A working couple who only speak
French.

They have an attack dog that barks a lot.

GUARERO

the family

A young family
with a very difficult surname. They have four children
your age.

The flat has only three rooms.

Where are you from?

Your friend is constantly asked where she comes from, even though she was born in Germany. It annoys her. You know that's what people mean when they say she doesn't belong here. That's racist.

Which of the four ways do you choose to respond?

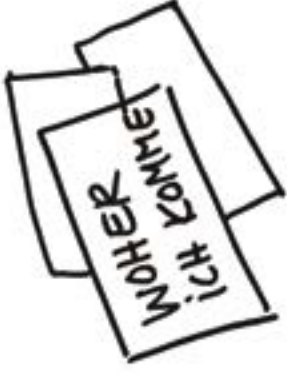

Origin

You talk about origin and try to educate people about it.

This is very time consuming.

C2

Postcards

You create funny postcards that your friend can give away in such situations.

The situation is not funny.

C2

Training

You re-enact the scenes and practise possible responses.

It puts a lot of stress on your friend.

C2

Newspaper

You write an article on the topic for the newspaper.

Articles from external sources are rarely published.

The Immigration Office

Your friend went to the town hall to apply for important documents. Your friend speaks little German. The official was very unfriendly.

Which of the four options would you like to respond with?

together

You go together to the town hall to help him.

In return, everyone misses an important maths test.

Research

You prepare for the next interview.

You have to do a lot of research.

Letter

You write a letter of complaint.

You have never written such a letter before.

Spy

You make a video of your next visit and post it on tiktok.

For this, your friend has to experience the situation again.
